

How to use a single invoice code for multiple transactions

- If a merchant wishes to receive payments without having to present their device to the consumer each time, they can simply print and display their invoice QR code in their place of business. The merchant should check their own device to ensure that the transaction was processed completely each time. For proper record-keeping, be sure to use the admin account to generate the code. Otherwise, the transactions will be attributed to the person with whose account the code was created.
